Swan Energy, Inc. Appoints Faye King to Lead Investor Relations and Corporate Communications

HOUSTON, TX August 8, 2017 – Swan Energy, Inc. (Swan Energy) announced the appointment of Faye King to Director of Investor Relations and Corporate Communications. As a key member of the management team, Faye will focus on building the organization’s brand in the highly-competitive oil and gas and financial services industries.

“Faye’s expertise in marketing and communications within the financial services industry will help us build our reputation and make our brand more accessible to new and existing markets. We are pleased to welcome her to the Swan family,” said Brandon Davis, Chairman and CEO.

Faye said, “I believe that my expertise in the highly-regulated financial services industry will be a critical asset for the organization as we continue to position ourselves for future growth opportunities.”

Prior to this position, Faye held executive marketing and communications roles at well-known financial services companies, where she earned a distinct track record of leading diverse teams to achieve organizational goals. She has approximately 20 years of experience across a variety of disciplines, including brand strategy, product marketing, business development, market research, investor relations, competitive analysis and content development.

Faye graduated from Texas Woman’s University with a master’s degree in business administration. She received a bachelor of arts degree in English and Communication Arts from New York Institute of Technology. She enjoys creative writing and social engagements in her spare time and is active in several local charities and professional associations.
